

Jake Sturm <jssaveshyloh@gmail.com>

Ministry of Foreign Affairs Investigation of Modern German Hospital Program to Murder Disabled Jewish and Muslim Infants

Jake Sturm <jssaveshyloh@gmail.com>
To: public@president.gov.il

Mon, May 11, 2015 at 12:03 PM

May 11, 2014

Dear President Rivlin,

Mr. President, it is within your power to commute the sentences of civilians. German doctors have sentenced my two-year-old Jewish daughter Shyloh (שילה) to death by slow, agonizing torture over several months. We have contacted Prime Minister Netanyahu about her case. One week after the election, the Prime Minister's office passed the case on to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for investigation. Unfortunately, for two months the Ministry of Foreign Affairs has refused to contact us, and two Israeli Ambassadors, whom we asked for help in regard to this problem, are also not responding to us. With Mr. Lieberman suddenly resigning from his post, I am contacting you, as you are the only official left in the Israeli government who can help us commute Shyloh's death sentence. We implore you, please, to help us save our daughter's life.

Because my daughter, who was born in Germany, was Jewish and had advanced cancer, she was sentenced to death in 2013 by the German medical system. German doctors hid her cancer, epilepsy, cerebral palsy, and strokes so they would not have to diagnose her, and all of her medical records and test reports were falsified. As the doctors well knew, by not diagnosing Shyloh there would be no treatment for her, and without treatment she would most certainly die the way all these babies do: slowly, over months, from the most agonizing, horrendous seizures. Parents of these babies can only helplessly watch their children suffer and die, unable to get even palliative care from the eugenicist medical system. As I have epilepsy myself, I can tell you that the seizures feel like electric shocks passing through the body—similar to getting shocked from an electrical outlet. For my daughter during her first few months of life, with no diagnosis or treatment by the German doctors, it was like being tortured with electric shocks over and over, hundreds of times each day. The seizures eventually became so powerful that she lost consciousness, only to wake again to the same agonies. She could not sleep, ever. She could barely suckle. There is no question that my daughter had awareness of her suffering and remembered her pain, despite being a newborn.

This slow, painful death was the sentence given to my daughter by German doctors when they and their staff hid her illness from my wife and me. Over a nine-month period, the actions of the Germans were carefully coordinated across three hospitals and multiple clinics, following well established protocols, which proves that withholding diagnosis to euthanize infants is a widespread, endemic part of their medical system. As doctors in two other countries (Switzerland and the USA) were also involved, the entire Western medical system is obviously an international system designed to slaughter any "defective" or "undesirable" minorities, with such crimes being easily hidden through records falsification, denial of diagnosis and treatment, and by providing legitimate care for the "non-defective" individuals who make up the majority of the patients. Below are the details of Shyloh's case, which will prove that this is true.

When our daughter went into a coma at two months old, and we brought her to the hospital in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, doctors told us that our child was sleeping and there was nothing wrong with her. Instead of trying to save her, the German doctors performed a lumbar puncture—a procedure which they knew would kill a baby with brain tumors like Shyloh's. While the procedure caused massive damage to her brain, she did not die right away and survived for four days in the hospital. Tired of waiting, the doctors let us go home with our dying child. As I have advanced medical training, I went to our family doctor and immediately obtained a prescription for THC, beginning the treatment of Shyloh's epilepsy with cannabis. Six days after the procedure, Shyloh had a massive seizure that lasted over five minutes and put her into cardiac arrest. By a miracle, my wife and I were able to revive her at home; the cannabis protected her brain from the damage done by the lumbar puncture and seizures, and protected her heart during the cardiac arrest, so she survived her first visit to the modern German gas chambers.

Desperate to save my daughter's life, I developed a new protocol for dosing, using special cannabis strains not available in the West to successfully treat her cancer, stroke, epilepsy, cerebral palsy, and brain injury. Her metastasized cancer is now in complete remission, and she is fully treated but delayed by six months. Her medical conditions are all defined as 100% untreatable by current Western medicine, but if the Truth of Shyloh's story were known to the millions suffering and dying from conditions like cancer, who are currently having treatment withheld from them, their lives could also be saved. If the Israeli government were to help Shyloh, not only would other patients have access to her cannabis strains and dosing protocol, but humankind's knowledge of medicine would advance exponentially. No one would die from these conditions anymore. People would have Hope.

As German doctors hid my daughter's cancer from us, we did not know that the lumbar puncture was done to euthanize her. Therefore, still believing that the doctors were trying to treat Shyloh, we brought her to another German hospital (LMU's epilepsy center in Munich) at three months old. At LMU, doctors took her into a closed room and made a second attempt to euthanize her, sticking a large needle through her skull and into her brain without anesthesia. Her screaming could be heard from one end of the hall to the other. They did the procedure when I left the ward, and I only returned just as they finished—too late to stop it. Once again, Shyloh's cannabis medicine saved her from the German death chambers.

In LMU, Shyloh and her mother were assigned to a special locked ward in which all the patients were non-German and mostly Muslim. The babies in this ward were in horrendous condition; in some cases, newborns were seizing so violently that they wore eye patches or hand mittens to protect themselves from injury. It is likely that the German medical system uses such wards to concentrate the foreign children they intend to euthanize. It appears that instead of using large concentration camps, they are now using small wards hidden within hospitals across Germany. This would be a modern continuation of the Nazi program to euthanize the disabled (which, it is well-documented, came originally from American eugenicists in the 1920s).

When Shyloh was seven months old, LMU doctors gave us an appointment that was clearly meant to kidnap and kill her by removing her from her lifesaving medicine. We fled to Switzerland—only to have Swiss neurologists cover-up their German colleagues' attempted murder by falsifying Shyloh's medical records and reporting us to child services. Now, both German and Swiss doctors, who all knew that Shyloh's medicine was keeping her alive, were trying to murder her by hiding her illness and calling our cannabis treatment abuse—despite our prescriptions for THC from two family doctors.

Obviously, cannabis prohibition is being used to murder children like Shyloh. With such fabricated "drug" charges, the German and Swiss doctors had full legal control to seize our daughter and do anything they wanted to her (they had already experimented on her at LMU). As we had no diagnosis, and only falsified medical reports, we knew that our daughter was in grave danger, the German and Swiss doctors hunting for her. With no way to protect her, we went to the Israeli Embassy in Bern, Switzerland with our evidence. We asked for permission to bring Shyloh to Israel with her medicine, as well as protection until we could get that permission. Despite both my wife and I being Jewish by Israeli law, the embassy refused to help us and threw us onto the street with our evidence and dying child.

We then contacted two American pediatric neurologists for an honest, truthful reading of our daughter's MRI. After receiving a copy of the test, and realizing what had been done to Shyloh, the doctors stopped returning our emails and phone calls. Two other American doctors agreed to read her MRI, but their report was also falsified to hide the crimes committed by the German doctors. Indisputably, there is an endemic, worldwide system of medical records/ autopsy falsification that enables doctors to do anything they want to patients without any checks or balances. This system puts all of us in danger. (I can provide further evidence of this system with my 2010 MRI report, which was written by an American doctor and is also falsified like Shyloh's. This report was meant to cover up my systemic sarcoidosis, which I developed in 1990 after I was exposed to sarin gas in the First Gulf War as a US Army Officer.)

How is it possible that I can provide indisputable evidence to the Israeli government of a worldwide system of medical records falsification, allowing doctors to euthanize children with impunity, and two months later I have not even been contacted about this case? How can Israel fail so catastrophically to protect its citizens in Germany, Switzerland, and the USA—to say nothing of all the Jewish non-citizens in the Diaspora—by not investigating? Why does the Israeli government treat a mother, whose child survived multiple murder attempts, and who was brutally thrown out of an Israeli embassy while begging for help for her dying child, with such contempt and disgust that they will not even tell her whether they are going to investigate the case?

All I ask is for a truthful, honest reading of my child's MRI and EEGs, and a forensic analysis of those tests to determine in what ways she was harmed by the lumbar and ventricular punctures. By speaking the truth about what is in my daughter's MRI, Israel can finally destroy an evil that even the loss of 80 million souls in WWII could not stop.

Is Israel only capable of fighting evil through violence? Is Israel totally incapable of fighting evil through Truth and Righteousness?

The souls of our Six Million Jewish ancestors—and all those since, who fought and died to protect Israel and to make her a haven for the Jewish people—await your response.

I thank you for your time.

Jake Sturm, Shyloh's father

Baruch ben Chanan

jssaveshyloh@gmail.com

P.S.— I have attached copies of the letters that I sent to Prime Minister Netanyahu and to the Israeli Germany and Netherlands Ambassadors.

3 attachments

Ambassador Letter.doc

39K

Prime Minister Letter 2.docx

117K

Prime Minister Netanyahu Letter.PDF

1485K